One of our peer reviewers had trouble opening the 2007 Word version of the sediment transport (ST) modeling report. So we provided the modeling reports in various different formats as follows:

- ST modeling report in 2007 Word format, 2003 Word format and PDF format.
- Contaminant fate and transport modeling report in PDF format.

You may find that these new PDF and Word formats fix some small equation reference errors that appear in the previous Word format of the ST modeling report (in the previous version, some of the embedded equation numbers appeared with the full equation shown, rather than just the equation number).

I have added a zipped file of these different report formats to the NRRB site. You will still need to go to the file I uploaded on Monday to get the attachments to the reports.

Sorry for the complexity.

The peer review draft of the modeling reports was too big to e-mail, so I uploaded it to the NRRB web site (along with the charge questions, previously e-mailed to you).

Amy: I hope you don't mind this use of the NRRB web site. If you would rather I not clutter it up this way, let me know and I can use another method to get the modeling report to CSTAG.

When do you expect the CSTAG will get the peer review report and charge questions?
